ACHC and QPI Partner to Help Providers Enhance Operations

CARY, N.C. – Accreditation Commission for Health Care (ACHC) announces a new partnership with QPI Healthcare Services (QPI), a data analytics company that specializes in healthcare compliance administration.

“ACHC and QPI are committed to helping healthcare organizations provide the highest quality care and services,” said Ryan Ragan, ACHC Business Development Manager. “This new partnership strengthens our shared focus to ensure providers not only remain compliant but also enhance their business operations as a whole.”

“At QPI, we pride ourselves on working alongside committed healthcare organizations,” said Jennifer Long, Vice President of Business Development, QPI Healthcare Services. “We provide the solution to maintain compliance with essential business operations for healthcare providers. Our aim is to give them back the time needed to focus on what’s important — compassionate, patient-centered quality care.”

“Accreditation compliance and standards implementation drive QPI’s HARP Light Technology,” Long said. “This process, along with our helpful standards crosswalks within Lavear, will allow ACHC’s Surveyors and QPI’s healthcare providers to expedite initial accreditation and recertification survey times.”

The collaboration gives QPI clients preferred pricing on ACHC Accreditation. Discounts on ACHCU educational resources that support the accreditation process also are available.
