ACHC and VAHC Renew Efforts to Support Providers

CARY, N.C. – Accreditation Commission for Health Care (ACHC) announces the renewal of its partnership with the Virginia Association for Home Care and Hospice (VAHC), an organization that represents the interests of home-based care providers through advocacy, education, and guidance.

“Our continued collaboration with VAHC reinforces our mutual commitment to enhancing quality of care and patient outcomes,” said Susan Mills, ACHC Senior Program Director. “VAHC is dedicated to ensuring providers have resources and information that build a sustainable culture of continuous improvement.”

The renewed collaboration allows VAHC members to continue receiving preferred pricing on ACHC Accreditation for home care, home health, hospice, home infusion therapy, and palliative care services. In addition, discounts are available on educational resources that support the accreditation process.

About Virginia Association for Home Care and Hospice

Established in 1983, VAHC is dedicated to elevating home-based care providers through advocacy, education, and guidance. VAHC provides a wide range of educational resources, including webinars, workshops, and training programs, that foster continuous quality improvement.

The association is a staunch advocate for home-based care providers and represents organizations at federal, state, and local levels. Members receive special support services along with newsletters and updates on important issues.
