ACHC and Soleran Partner to Support Hospitals

CARY, N.C. – Leading accreditor Accreditation Commission for Health Care (ACHC) announced today it is partnering with Soleran, a leader in Integrated Compliance Management (ICM) and facility compliance software. The partnership will benefit ACHC's hospital customers by giving them access to high-quality software solutions to enable efficiency and traceability related to the physical environment and life safety.

"ACHC and Soleran support our nation's acute care hospitals and critical access hospitals," said Patrick Horine, ACHC Vice President, Acute Care. "This partnership provides hospitals with innovative technology solutions to enhance quality of patient care and optimize business operations."

Jill Allen, Vice President of Marketing at Soleran, said, "We're thrilled to partner with ACHC to bring deeper efficiency and automation to healthcare compliance. We're adding ACHC's Standards right into our applications to provide up-to-the-minute data clarity for hospitals. They'll always know if they are in compliance and can pull a report anytime. Together, we're equipping providers with the tools they need to create safer, smarter facilities – because patient safety starts with the environment."

Through this partnership, healthcare organizations will gain discounted access to Soleran's full suite of compliance applications, with ACHC's physical environment and life safety standards built directly into the software. This will offer hospitals integrated workflows, real-time reporting, and actionable insights to support survey readiness and regulatory adherence.
