ACHC and AndHealth Support Specialty Services

CARY, N.C. – National accreditor Accreditation Commission for Health Care (ACHC) and AndHealth, a digital specialty care platform for chronic disease management, are continuing their collaboration to expand and improve access to specialty care and specialty pharmacy services.

“ACHC and AndHealth are mutually dedicated to driving advancements in quality of care, operational efficiencies, and patient outcomes,” said Jeffrey Reses, RPH, HDDP, ACHC Senior Pharmacy Clinical Liaison. “As the specialty market continues to grow, AndHealth supports the vital connections that broaden access to care and essential specialty pharmacy services. By continuing our partnership, we strengthen support for integrated specialty services that enhance care models.”

“AndHealth is honored to continue our partnership with ACHC, whose standards have been instrumental in launching and growing embedded Specialty Pharmacies within our Community Health Center partners nationwide,” said Matt Scantland, CEO of AndHealth. “This collaboration enables us to deliver industry-leading clinical care and improve health outcomes for underserved populations. By adhering to ACHC’s high standards, AndHealth remains committed to providing world-class healthcare to all patients.”

The strategic partnership gives AndHealth clients special pricing on ACHC Specialty Pharmacy Accreditation and discounts on select ACHCU educational resources.

About AndHealth

AndHealth helps Community Health Centers (CHCs) radically improve access and outcomes for patients in specialty care and specialty pharmacy, while becoming an even larger and more clinically integrated part of our healthcare system. This Whole-Person Community Care Model provides everything CHCs need to deliver in-house specialty care and specialty pharmacy, built for the unique needs of our medically underserved populations.

The model provides CHCs with more patients, more clinical capabilities, alignment with health systems, and sustainable reimbursement and funding that restores the integrity of the patient’s medical home and their critical reimbursement model—both having shifted away from CHCs through external specialty referrals and contract pharmacies. In restoring this integrity, CHCs can tear down barriers to care and stretch scarce federal resources to reach more patients with comprehensive services that weren’t possible before and that are desperately needed by patients.
