Alora Home Health Software Earns Product Certification

CARY, N.C. – Accreditation Commission for Health Care (ACHC), a leading national healthcare accreditor, announces it has awarded product certification to Alora Home Health Software, an electronic medical record (EMR) software provider.

"By achieving certification of its software, Alora Health has demonstrated its commitment to serving home health, home care and hospice providers with a high-quality system for documentation. ACHC Product Certification was designed to build understanding of the accreditation requirements for settings in which the products are used and to support ACHC accreditation customers by providing a simple way to validate that a given product is in compliance with ACHC Standards," said Susan Mills, ACHC senior program director.

"Earning ACHC Product Certification for Alora home health software validates our organization's focus on compliance, quality, and workflow efficiency, all with the ultimate goal of improving patient outcomes and agency performance," remarked Sathish John, CEO of Alora Healthcare Systems.

Alora EMR software solutions are available for three ACHC Accreditation programs: Home Care, Home Health and Hospice.
