ACHC Renews Partnership with Home Care Association of Florida

CARY, N.C. – Accreditation Commission for Health Care (ACHC) announced today the renewal of its partnership with the Home Care Association of Florida (HCAF), reinforcing a shared commitment to supporting home care providers through education, collaboration, and access to trusted accreditation resources. The continued partnership helps ensure Florida agencies have the tools and guidance they need to deliver safe, high-quality care in an increasingly complex regulatory environment.

“Our partnership with HCAF is rooted in a shared belief that providers deserve clear guidance, practical education, and support that extends beyond the survey,” said Susan Mills, ACHC Senior Program Director. “By continuing this collaboration, we’re helping home care organizations strengthen quality, stay informed, and feel confident navigating accreditation and regulatory expectations.”

“HCAF's partnership with ACHC creates meaningful value for our members through exclusive discounts on accreditation services and educational programs, while bringing industry-leading experts to our events, said Denise Bellville, RN, BS, Executive Director of HCAF. By collaborating on programming and maintaining a presence at each other's flagship conferences, we're strengthening the home care community and ensuring providers have access to the resources and expertise they need to deliver exceptional care.”

Through this continued collaboration, HCAF members will receive preferred pricing on ACHC Home Care and Home Health Accreditation, along with discounts on select resources offered by ACHCU, the educational division of ACHC.
