ACHC and AHHC Renew Partnership to Support Care-at-Home Providers

CARY, N.C. (May 20, 2026) The Accreditation Commission for Health Care (ACHC) has renewed its partnership with the Association for Home & Hospice Care of North Carolina (AHHC) to support providers across home health, hospice, and home care services throughout North Carolina. Through this continued collaboration, ACHC and AHHC will provide resources, education, and support to strengthen quality and compliance across the care-at-home community.

“Providers across North Carolina are navigating real regulatory and operational pressures. This partnership is about giving them clear guidance, practical education, and a survey approach that helps teams strengthen their processes,” said ACHC Senior Program Director. Working alongside AHHC allows us to stay closely connected to what providers are facing and support them in delivering safe, high-quality care in the home.”

“We’re proud to renew our partnership with the Accreditation Commission for Health Care (ACHC), an organization that shares our deep commitment to quality, compliance, and excellence in care at home,” said AHHC President and CEO Tim Rogers. “Our association, the Association for Home & Hospice Care of North Carolina, was the original founder of ACHC back in the late 80’s. And now—partnering together—AHHC and ACHC will continue equipping providers with the resources, education, and advocacy they need to deliver exceptional care to patients and families across North Carolina.”

Through this renewed partnership, AHHC members will have access to ACHC accreditation programs, along with exclusive discounts, including $500 off accreditation services and $50 off ACHCU educational offerings. These benefits are designed to help providers navigate regulatory requirements, enhance operational performance, and maintain high standards of care.

About Association for Home & Hospice Care of North Carolina

Founded in 1972, the Association for Home & Hospice Care of North Carolina (AHHC) is a statewide trade association representing home care, home health, hospice, and palliative care providers. AHHC advocates for its members while delivering education, regulatory guidance, and essential resources to support high-quality care in the home. Through collaboration, leadership, and innovation, AHHC continues to strengthen and advance the care-at-home community across North Carolina.
