ACHC Partners with eNavvi to Elevate Compounding Pharmacy Services

CARY, N.C. – Leading accreditor Accreditation Commission for Health Care (ACHC) announced today it is forming a strategic partnership with eNavvi, a free digital prescribing platform created by physicians for physicians.

"eNavvi was built by physicians who appreciate solutions that compounded medications offer in the world of personalized medicine. We prioritize physician-driven choice in selecting PCAB pharmacies," said Caroline Girardeau, ACHC Program Director. "eNavvi's physician-led approach aligns well with how we think about recognizing compounding pharmacies who adhere to rigorous USP requirements, and produce high-quality medications people can trust. Together, we're supporting pharmacies with exceptional compounding quality through accreditation."

"Partnering with ACHC aligns with our commitment to elevating quality and transparency in compounding pharmacy care," said Alex Prevallet, DO Chief Medical Officer. "By supporting PCAB-accredited pharmacies, we help physicians confidently prescribe to facilities that meet rigorous standards while improving patient access and affordability. Together, we are strengthening trust in the compounding ecosystem."

As part of this partnership, ACHC-accredited organizations will receive a one-time $1,000 discount on eNavvi services. This collaboration also gives eNavvi clients special pricing on PCAB Accreditation. Discounts on select ACHCU educational resources are also available.
