ACHC and Alora Healthcare Systems Partner to Support Care-at-Home Providers

CARY, N.C. (June 23, 2026) Leading accreditor Accreditation Commission for Health Care (ACHC) announced today a new partnership with Alora Healthcare Systems to support home health, hospice, and home care providers through technology solutions, compliance-focused resources, and operational support.

“Accreditation readiness is not something providers build in the final weeks before survey,” said Susan Mills, RN, Senior Program Director at ACHC. “It’s shaped by the systems, documentation, workflows, and daily practices that support quality care over time. This partnership with Alora gives care-at-home organizations another resource to help strengthen that foundation.”

“Our partnership with ACHC reflects a shared commitment to helping post-acute providers succeed in an increasingly complex regulatory environment,” said Sathish John, CEO of Alora Healthcare Systems. “By combining ACHC’s accreditation expertise with Alora’s purpose-built technology platform, agencies can strengthen compliance readiness, improve operational efficiency, and ultimately focus more on delivering high-quality patient care.”

Through this collaboration, ACHC-accredited organizations will have access to Alora’s cloud-based electronic medical record (EMR) platform designed to streamline clinical, operational, and billing workflows while supporting compliance readiness and operational performance across the care at home continuum.

Alora customers will also receive exclusive discounts through the partnership, including $500 off select ACHC accreditation services and $50 off ACHCU educational offerings.

About Alora Healthcare Systems
